

Motivation Essay

I am a final year student majoring in IT - Information Technology; I love this subject because of its creativity, thinking in all problems and the relevance of the field to myself. I don't come from a person who is good at technology, good at computers and programming, but I still study well in my major thanks to my diligence, my own efforts, and the desire to learn every day during the past 4 years. And in my last year of school, I want to become an Intern of a company that matches my ability; After that, I will become an official employee of the company when I graduated, with a good salary, suitable for myself, above all when I have gained solid experience, I want to be able to become a team leader who brings a lot of profit to the company. The plan to help me do those things is to learn more soft skills that I have not yet perfected, practice foreign language skills, and apply what I have learned to many practical projects to get more experience for myself. I am so grateful!
